Kellogg: Who Entered Into Rest October 16, 1889 Aged 43 Years and 10 Months When one who has been eminently useful in the home, society, church and Sunday school, is called from earthly ties and duties to a blessed entrance into the heavenly mansions, it is fitting some word of tribute and grateful appreciation of what she was to her many friends should be placed on record. Mary W. A. Kellogg was born in Hadley, Mass., Dec. 7th, 1845. She was the second daughter of Levi and Mary Wheeler Adams and was given her mother s name in baptism by Rev. Pomeroy Belden, July 2d, 1846, at East Amherst. In her childhood, her mother says, she was perfectly healthy with a happy, cheerful temperament that made her a joy in the home and to all who knew her. Beginning school at an early age, she passed through the various grades until at seventeen, she entered the normal school at Westfield, Mass., it being her desire to fit herself for the work of teaching. Her first Sabbath from home was made memorable by giving her heart to the Savior, for she wrote her parents: I felt the need of a Friend who would always abide with me. Her course of study, which proved to be both pleasant and profitable, was interrupted by a severe illness in the winter of 1863-64, the nature of which was such that further attendance upon school was forbidden by her physicians. During the months of invalidism she found a comforter and companion in her baby brother Willie, then two years old, whose infant prattle...
