There are now five leagues under the Jurisdiction of the Association, as follows: Southern New England League, Rhode Island League, Fall River City League, New Bedford City League, and Providence and District League. The public is responding nobly to the call for support of the sport, prevailing opinion being that the game is on a sounder basis than ever before, which is bound to have continued progress under the guidance of the National body. Many new players have been brought out, some of whom will be seen in faster company the coming season. The Southern New England League had a very successful season, but was handicapped through having two weak clubs which made a very poor showing. The New Bedford Club won the league championship, the Young Men s Catholic Total Abstainers Soccer Football Club...
